CHAPTER II. How Sir Tristram saved Sir Palomides' life, and how they promised to fight together within a fortnight. So Sir Tristram alighted off his horse because they were on foot, that they should not slay his horse, and then dressed his shield, with his sword in his hand, and he smote on the right hand and on the left hand passing sore, that well-nigh at every stroke he struck down a knight.

Man has an intellectual and moral nature which demands God as his Creator. Man's conscience, which is a law to man, necessitates a Law-Giver. Man's free will implies a Great Will. Without God as the basis for right and wrong, no government would be possible except on the principle, "might makes right."

Verse 1. THE GENERAL LETTER OF JAMES. Oesterley thought that "For the most part this epistle is a collection of independent sayings"; [1] but the viewpoint advocated here is that every portion of it fit beautifully and appropriately into the one theme of "Perfection" which ties every word of it into a cohesive whole. This theme was stated at the outset (James 1:4), thus: "That ye may be ...

A man who drives several horses hitched to a chariot must see to it that each animal is already broken and docile. Now prudence is like the driver of all the moral virtues, auriga virtutum, and it ought to have them all in hand, so to speak. One does not go without the other: they are connected in prudence, which directs them. ...

Nephi was the fourth of six sons of Lehi and Sariah. He is believed to have been born in 615 BC. Nephi and his family lived in Jerusalem, circa 600 BC, during the reign of King Zedekiah, until Lehi was commanded by God to take his family and flee into the wilderness. Before their flight, Nephi's father prophesied the impending destruction and captivity of Jerusalem by the armies of Babylon.
