At that instant a teammate is crossing the blue line and has one skate completely across the blue line into the Attacking Zone and the other skate fully on the blue line and not touching any part of white Neutral Zone ice. Should the delayed off-side (non-intentional) be nullified? Yes. Rule Reference 630(d.2).

Off-Sides

Therefore, when the puck is entering the attacking zone, the "determining edge" of the blue line shall be the edge closest to the attacking goal. Therefore, the determination as to whether an "off-sides" has occurred will only take place at the moment the puck has completely crossed the determining edge into the attacking zone.

Rule 630 | Off-Sides

In ice hockey, a play is offside if a player on the attacking team does not control the puck and is in the offensive zone when a different attacking player causes the puck to completely cross the blue line into the offensive zone, until either the puck or all attacking players leave the offensive zone. Simply put, attacking players must not enter the attacking zone before the puck.

The puck or puck carrier must enter the offensive zone first. That is crossing over the other teams blue line. If the puck re enters the zone while there are players still in the zone, it is delayed offside, they are not allowed to touch the puck or the play will be called dead.

New To Hockey, don't understand the offside rule : hockey

If a child avoids crossing the mid-line, then both hands tend to get equal practice at developing skills and the child's true handedness may be delayed. This means that once a child starts school, learning to write is much more difficult when they have two less skilled hands rather than one stronger, more skilled (dominant) hand.
